Update to Winter 2022 in-person program delivery

Dear student,

As we announced prior to the holiday break, classes are currently proceeding virtually for most programs as a result of the rising cases of COVID-19 and the guidance we have received from public health.

While we originally hoped that most programs could resume in-person instruction on January 24, we are writing today to share that the majority of our programs will continue to be delivered virtually until at least March 7, 2022 given the continuing high rate of community spread of COVID-19.

A limited number of programs, where in-person instruction is critical to meeting learning outcomes, will begin on-campus classes on January 24, in addition to those that resumed in-person learning on January 10. Students in these programs will be notified directly by their faculty through their SLATE site no later than end of day January 18.

Programs with an in-person component are also flagged with a checkmark in myOTR: <https://myotr.sheridancollege.ca/program-mode.html>

Should public health guidelines permit, we will strive to open additional non-academic spaces on campus over the next several weeks to afford students the opportunity to access more labs, studios and study spaces when it is safe to do so. A list of current study spaces is available here.

We recognize that this news will be disappointing to learners who were hoping to return to campus sooner. Please know that this decision was made with the health and safety of our students and staff as our priority, and our commitment to follow the guidance of our public health leaders.

Rest assured that Sheridan's faculty and staff are here to support you during these challenging times. If you need help, please reach out to us. A list of virtual student support services is available on our website.

Should you have questions about your program delivery, please contact registrar@sheridancollege.ca.

Sincerely,

Carol Altilia
Provost and Vice President, Academic
